

To Dominion Board of Directors and CEO Tom Farrell:

Dominion needs to invest in smart energy solutions, not continue down the path of an outdated dirty energy plan. Dominion’s plans to build more coal-fired power plants will accelerate global warming, mountain top removal mining, the construction of new transmission lines, and the poisoning of our air and water. Every day, Dominion’s ‘business as usual’ means another mountain is blown up and another community is destroyed in Southwest Virginia.

There is a better way — invest in smart energy solutions like energy efficiency, conservation, and renewable energy. Dominion can be part of the solution by providing clean energy while protecting people’s health and safety.

We, the undersigned, call upon Dominion to:

- STOP building the Wise County power plant, endangering the climate and destroying the mountains we love so dearly;
- START dedicating its full resources to develop and promote energy efficiency, conservation, and renewable energy;
- SO THAT Dominion can become a 21st century energy company focused on smart energy solutions.

Sincerely,
